Danielle Burr to Join Peck Madigan Jones

Veteran Senate, House leadership staffer

WASHINGTON, D.C. – December 8, 2016: Danielle Burr, a veteran of the offices of House Majority Leader Kevin McCarthy and former Senate Whip Jon Kyl, will join the leading, bipartisan government relations firm Peck Madigan Jones (PMJ) in January of next year. PMJ is a firm of the independently-owned Tiber Creek Group.

Burr leaves Leader McCarthy's office after two years serving as the GOP Leader's Director of External Affairs and primary liaison to the business community, including trade associations and movement conservatives. In addition to her prior service in Senate leadership, Burr previously served in government affairs for the Associated Builders and Contractors and held a senior position at government relations firm Navigators Global.

Peck Madigan Jones is part of the Tiber Creek Group, which includes The Ickes & Enright Group, Bay Bridge Strategies, TiberCom, and Tiber Creek Health Strategies. Originally founded in 1987, Tiber Creek is one of the largest bipartisan, independently owned government relations organizations with offices in Washington, DC, and New York City.

At PMJ, Burr joins a stable of senior GOP operatives. "Danielle is an extraordinary professional. She really is the next generation of conservative advocates who provides a unique perspective given her background in leadership in both chambers. Danielle will help us continue to build the bipartisan policy and political solutions Peck Madigan Jones is known for," said Peter T. Madigan, president of the firm.

"I'm looking forward to joining the team at PMJ and the other Tiber Creek companies," said Burr. "PMJ is among the most effective and most respected government relations firms in the country. I'm excited to begin working with their clients and contributing to their successes."
